
JOHAN OPPEN, Molde University College

Connected sequences

We present a combinatorial problem where the idea is to build a picture or map piece by piece in such a way that it stays connected at all times during the building phase. Computational methods, both exact and approximate, to count the number of such connected sequences, are presented.