

---

DAVID KIRKPATRICK, University of British Columbia

Finding treasure in trees

We study a multi-goal variant of the classical cow-path search problem, when the search domain is modeled by a general rooted symmetric tree (as opposed to a star graph). We describe (near-optimal) competitive universal search strategies in this context that generalize our earlier results on the multi-list traversal problem.

[Based on joint work with Sandra Zilles, University of Regina]