
DANIEL GOC, University of Waterloo

Automatic Theorem-Proving in Automatic Sequences

We describe the implementation of a decision procedure for certain properties of automatic sequences, using finite automata and a package for manipulating them. We highlight a range of successful applications of the technique, including the determination of the optimal repetition avoidance exponent for Leech's sequence.