

---

DHRUV MUBAYI, University of Illinois at Chicago, USA

Independent sets in hypergraphs

A basic problem in extremal combinatorics is to determine the independence number of a hypergraph. We will consider this question in various contexts. Our results show that the behavior of the independence number of sparse hypergraphs is quite different than the graph case. We will also describe some hypergraph generalizations of the graph Ramsey number  $R(3,t)$ .